STORING VEGETABLES.

The Best Way to Keep Them in Winter.

It requires care and a knowledge of the nature of vegetables in order to successful keep them through the late fall and winter. They must, as a rule, be kept in a cool atmosphere, but not cool enough to freeze. But pumpkins and squash need a dry, warm air and in gathering must be carefully handled. It is best to leave the stem long, and never store squashes until ripe.

Potatoes do best in a cellar that is cool and damp and should be kept in the dark as much as possible, but there should be an arrangement for a good circulation of air.

Barrels or boxes are best for carrots, parsnips, beets and turnips. After storing in these receptacles sand or fine soil should be placed on top, allowing it to run down between the roots.
The soil should be shaken down so as to fill all the spaces.

In harvesting the vegetables must be carefully handled and the tops cut off an inch or more from the top. This will prevent a chance of decay from close cutting. If beets are cut too close they will bleed, losing their sweet flavor, and quickly spoil.

Onions should be perfectly dried as soon as gathered and not allowed in a damp place. If kept in a dry room where the thermometer is barely above freezing they will keep well.

Cabbage placed in a barrel and sunk in the ground and so arranged that moisture cannot enter and then thickly covered with straw and earth will keep nicely till far into spring. But where it is intended to be used during the winter a good plan is to cut off the stems and outer leaves, trim the heads about as much as if preparing to cook and then wrap each head separately in several thicknesses of newspaper. This will exclude the air. After lining a barrel with paper pack the wrapped heads closely in it and after all are in cover with paper. The barrel must be kept in the coolest part of the cellar. Dampness will not harm the keeping qualities.

To keep tomatoes pick the largest specimens that have begun to show color as soon as the vines are cut by frost, but before the fruit is frosty.
Wrap each tomato separately in soft paper and place in shallow boxes or on a shelf one layer deep. Keep in a cool place, secure from frost, so as to prevent ripening. If a few are brought out at a time and placed in a warm place they will quickly ripen. They can thus be kept for several weeks after killing frosts.

An occasional turning under of the whole crop is one of the best paying methods of farming.

Cobs For Kindling.
First, provide a large substantial dry goods box. Place in a wood shed and fill it with old cobs. Second, take any old fill holding about two and a half or three quarts. Fill that about a quarter full with kerosene oil and hang on a stout nail conveniently near the large box. Then fill the pail with cobs, standing each on end so that the ends will be submerged in the oil. In the morning take six cobs from the pail, place in your stove, lay your large wood on the cobs and touch cobs off with a match. You will soon have a roaring hot fire. Nor need you entertain any fears about it not going, for the cobs have absorbed some of the oil and will burn for a half hour or more with intense heat. Even green wood may be used if baked in oven for an hour or so before the fire is allowed to go out the night before. But everybody knows that green wood is not as easy to kindle as seasoned wood. The good wife always appreciates a supply of dry fuel.

Of course when you take any 'cobs out of the pail others must be put in to take their places. In this way a very valuable supply of excellent kindling is always on hand, and you always know exactly where to find it. If you have no cobs, any miller is usually glad to let you have them for carrying them away, or at the most a miller will charge you only 25 cents for a two horse double wagon box load, and since it is only necessary to use six cobs to start one fire they will last a long time. Besides, they are very handy—no muss or dirt, already split and ready for use.

vice, give us a trial.

ABOUT THE STATE

Although the Equinox house, Manchester, has been closed for the season, there are still many visitors at the Orvis cottage and other boarding houses while many of the cottagers will remain several weeks yet.

Potatoes are now being offered in liberal quantities in Middlebury at from 65 to 70 cents a bushel, and the crop seems to be holding up to a much better average than was anticipated a few weeks ago. A good quality of apples can now be had for $1.50 a barrel delivered.

Edward Ellis of Lemington, was killed October 5 by the overturning of his wagon while he was driving into his yard with a load of vegetables. The heavy load fell on him and his back was broken.

Leg Amputated Just Below Knee.
Arthur McMarrow, of Belvidere, suffered a serious injury recently by falling from a lumber pile, twenty feet, to the ground. He struck on a stone and one leg was broken. The bone was split and it became necessary to ampu-tate the leg just below the knee. The knee was also injured.

Adventists Elect Officers.
At Thursday's session of the annual convention of the Housatonic Valley conference of Advent Christian churches, held in Rutland, the following officers were elected: President, the Rev. W. O.
Higley of Castleton; vice-president, the Rev. A. E. Phelps of Athol, Mass.; secretary, the Rev. W. G. Brown of North Adams, Mass.; treasurer, the Rev. George Armstrong of Schenectady, N. Y.

Program For D. A. R. Conference.
The official program of the ninth annual conference of the Vermont Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which is to be held in Montpelier Wednesday, October 21, has been issued.
The meetings will be held in the Wood Art gallery. The program includes an informal reception in the morning, a welcome by Mrs. Charles H. Heaton, regent of Marquis De Lafayette Chapter of Montpelier, with a response by Mrs.
Mary E. McKinnon, regent of St. John de Crevecoeur Chapter, a report of the four raised for the real daughters and the presentation of a gold spoon to Harriet D. Dodge, a volunteer of the war, by Mrs. J. E. Estey of Brattleboro, and the nomination and election of officers. The public exercises will be held in Representatives hall the evening of that day.

Guarding Against Hight Water.
Fully 700 men are now employed on the Connecticut river dam at Vernon and on the roads and railroads which the Connecticut River Power Co. is raising or making to protect the towns of Brattleboro, Vernon and Hinsdale, N. H., from damage by high water when the dam is completed.

A large gang of Italians is now at work raising the Central Vermont railroad tracks between Brattleboro and Vernon, and the highway between these towns has been raised or built at a new location at three different places.
The work of raising the road on the island is now in full swing, and in a little time the old bridge between the island and the New Hampshire shore will be raised above the danger line. The Hinsdale road is being built at a higher level up the hill to the east from its old location. More than a mile of this road will be changed in location.

It is expected that the dam will be so far along toward completion that the water will set back in the big pool in January. The company will not be able to furnish power until some time after that, however, as the power house will be built after the dam is completed.

Season For Killing Deer Will Be From October 26 to 31.

Bennington, Oct. 12.—The open season for deer hunting in this state begins on Monday, Oct. 26, and continues through Saturday, Oct. 31.

Sometimes since the Vermont fish and game club issued cloth posters which lack the date printed wrong and considerable confusion has thereby been caused. The law provides, however, that the season shall be the last full week in October, containing six working days, which this year will be the last six days of the month. County game wardens have been notified recently to this effect and new posters will soon be published.

COL STEWART RETIRED.

The Army "Exile" Declared Incapacitated for Active Service.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Colonel William F. Stewart, who has been in "exile" at the ungracious post at Fort Grant, has been retired from active service.
The report of the board which examined Colonel Stewart was presented to the president Saturday and he immediately directed that Colonel Stewart be retired. Colonel Stewart, who is now in this city, was notified of the president's action.

The Refining Influence of Money.

He's very wary and discreet.
He says that she is "quite petite."

And that description has no sting.
Like "little, sawed-off dumpy thing."

He would not say her hair is red;
He speaks of "auburn locks" instead.

Nor would he say that she is fat.
He's too much of a diplomat.

Of course it doesn't sound so strong Referring to her "omblonpomp."

A very common sort of dumb Might rudely term her nose a snub.

But he would more politely say It was "a charming raytroscopy."

I've heard she hardly stopped for breath, But talked until one longed for death.

He says, with a desire to please, She speaks with fluency and ease.

It all depends, as you'll admit,
Upon the way you look at it.

And there is nobility on earth,
At least, who can deny her worth.

They, you or her or anyone Can look in "Broadstreet" or in "Dan."

Farm and Garden

FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

What They Need is an Occasional Change of Scene.

A bright woman correspondent of Country Gentleman writes as follows:
Once in awhile most farmers' wives, I think, get tired of their everyday duties and occupations—out of tune with their work and surroundings. The best medicine for such a complaint is change. They should go to the home of some city cousin, of which most of us have a few, and compare conditions.

The first thing we notice is lack of room, which is a painful want to those of us who have been brought up in the big country. What comprises a home in a large city can often be con-

AT A BARGAIN SALE.

tained almost on one floor of a country house and the tiny dooryard be-covered with a good sized tablecloth.
Everything, too, costs so much—even the air, we get so little, and we sigh in vain for the cooling breezes that are nearly always to be found somewhere on our farm home.

City women, however, have a good many advantages that their country friends miss. They have more time for rest, recreation and reading.
Their homes, being small, are more easily cared for. The men of the household are usually away through the day. Fruit, vegetables and groceries are brought to the door, and it is always possible to find some one to do the work. The chances to shop and attend bargain sales are right at hand. There are also theaters, lectures, concerts and in the summer numberless little excursions that are not expensive and make a delightful change. When we visit the city we enjoy these privileges very much. If we go in the summer, however, we hardly get home before our visit is returned. Our city friends think it costs country people scarcely anything to have company—they raise so much of their food, and they have plenty of room anyway. So if we go for one week they return us two or three, if not more. They always get the best of us, we can be certain of that, and how they enjoy the drives, fruit, milk and outdoor life—even better than we do the city pleasures, which they use even while they entertain, so that we are glad to go home, glad to return to the simple life and take up our old work. We all have, I believe, some city friends whom we visit seldom and whose coming we look forward to with dread. Their children are unruly, and they don't wish them to be corrected. They keep our houses and lawns untidy with their hats, wraps and papers, while in their own homes they are extremely particular and don't want to have a thing out of place.

There are others who feel superior to us. They view the farmer and his family with pity, almost with contempt. They think farm life is so solitary, farm earnings so small! Yet they like to partake of the farmers' hospitality even while they try to excite envy and discontent, and I think they really like to have us visit them, mostly, though, for the purpose of showing us their luxuries and advantages which we do not possess. Such acquaintances should never be invited to repeat the first visit. They should speed the parting guest and discourage them from coming again.

Dominoes.
It has been estimated that two persons playing dominoes ten hours a day and making four plays a minute could continue 118,000 years without exhausting all the combinations of the game.
The total of which is 248,528,211,840.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpelide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpelide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleaning the scalp of dandruff and also for the excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it always that itching which dandruff will cause.
Newbro's Herpelide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpelide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpelide Co., Detroit, Mich.
